EDITORIAL FLINGS

Some candidates we have known in the past have found out that they couldn't even fool part of the people part of the time.

Women must be coming to the front as editors when a Kentucky paper prints in its personal column the lines, "Anticipation is about all there is to kissing."

The domestic situation in Paris will be improved when it is possible for the hot biscuit consumer to say sincerely to the cook: "Well done, my good and faithful servant."

Some fellows we know in Paris would make admirable proprietors of cash stores. They won't give their wives credit for anything, not even for possessing good sound sense.

Following was an interchange of sharp wit heard recently in the P. H. S. auditorium between two students: "Gee, you're a Gem!" "Well, would Gillette me kiss you?" "I'm Everready, kid." Here we will put in That girl's daddy Autostop her.

In these days of modern science the individual leads a hard life. If he has a peculiar fondness for a particular relative the Freudians hold him up as a horrid example and if he hasn't such fondness his relatives damn him as a selfish brute.

A scientist declares there is less cannibalism in the world nowadays than at any time previously. Business mayn't be what it ought to be, and Federal legislation may be bad, but hush your croaking. There's always something for which to be thankful.

It's an old and much vexed question. "Is it the correct thing to remove hats in a passenger elevator?" Well, we are of the opinion that a considerate man would never attempt to remove the hats of the men in elevators who won't remove their own.

Some expert is always announcing "the most beautiful woman in the world." She was found long ago here in Paris—she was the mother of the poor mite of humanity who writes these lines, and who has never ceased to revere her memory as the loveliest woman in the wide, wide world.

Mary Garden says: "The only real men in the United States today are Henry Ford, William Randolph Hearst and Frank Munsey." What a wallop at Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Al Jolson, and a few other red-blooded virile Americans! Wonder how Mary came to be in possession of such exclusive information?

Now here is a good one they are telling on a certain well-known Paris son of the old sod. This Irishman, a devout member of the church, and a good business man, was walking down Main street a few days ago in company with some friends, when he happened to note a sign on a show window, announcing "Nut Sundae." Stopping for a few moments to consider the sign, our friend remarked to his companions: "Well, I'm a good churchman, and observe all the holidays and all that sort of thing, and there's Ash Wednesday, Shrove Tuesday, Palm Sunday, Easter Sunday, and several other kinds, but I'll be blamed if Nut Sunday ain't a new one on me."

Too many people imagine that "criticism" means the finding of fault. The dictionary defines criticism as "the art of judging with knowledge and propriety." Were we always governed by this definition, then criticism would be a helpful, upbuilding thing, bringing progress and not destruction; happiness, not bitterness.

Football is one of the great American games, and it stirs the blood to witness the game. It seems that the more men carried from the field in a chipped condition the more the sport is enjoyed. A game lasts one hour, but it could be shortened considerably if the opposing teams were allowed to arm themselves with redud clubs. These clubs have more knots on them than any other wood.

A few days ago we read in an exchange a notice warning residents not to throw rubbish, waste paper, etc., in the streets. We wondered if a similar notice would have any effect in Paris. On some of the streets waste paper and other trash lie about until the street cleaners come along and remove it. People with any judgment at all would refrain from throwing rubbish of any kind in the streets.

P. H. S. GIRLS' BASKET BALL TEAM

Paris High School expects to have the best girls' basket ball team this season it has ever had. With Ruby Hall, whose skill for shooting goals is unsurpassed, and Edna Rice, one of the best guards in Central Kentucky, who not only keeps her opponent from making goals, but surprises them by making some herself, left from last year's team, and forty other girls trying for places on the team, we expect to have a team that Paris will be proud of. These girls were both good last year, but there has been a marked improvement in their playing up to the present time, and they will probably continue to improve.

The first team has not been selected, and with so much good material to choose from it will not be an easy task, but will leave a strong second team. Frances Ann Steenbergen uses the pivot and dodge splendidly and leads her opponent a merry chase. Vivian Wallingford seems to be doing her best to take her sister Katherine's place as guard. She is unusually quick and seems to be all over the floor at once. Emily Fithian, Sallie Payne and Eleanor Payne play a much better game than they did last year. Margaret Santen, Bernice Calvert, Alberta Myers, Opal Malory and Willie Fisher are all trying for the center position. Nettie Dalzell and Marjorie Trisler are both new material, but they are developing into splendid guards. These, with Rebecca Collier, Julia Lavin, Georgia Adams, Josephine Doyle, Frances Clark, Mae Elizabeth Watson and Margaret Bristow offer material for one of the best teams in Central Kentucky. Class teams are being organized and inter-class games will be played.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS NOW

The National Tuberculosis Association some fifteen years ago put out a Christmas seal to be sold at a penny apiece to interest the public in a great nation-wide effort to stamp out tuberculosis. This little penny Christmas stamp stands to-day as the great champion of health and the enemy of the "Great White Plague." It has been the means of interesting more people in the cause of tuberculosis prevention and good health than any one thing.

Financial returns from the annual seal sales have not been large, but the results have been tremendous and far-reaching exceeding the fondest hopes of those who conceived this splendid means of financing the warfare against tuberculosis. Sanatoriums have been built, nursing service established, laws enacted requiring the reporting of tuberculosis and the care of consumptives, as a result of the educational work which was fostered by seal sales.

It ought to be a crime to allow more than 3,000 of the most productive and necessary people of Kentucky to die each year from tuberculosis. The message of the 1922 Christmas seal is to carry on the fight for health. Every seal you buy and every seal you use on your Christmas mail helps. Buy Christmas seals and become a member of the victorious crusade.

WHAT THE EDITOR HAS TO CONTEND WITH

The following extract from an exchange is commended to the careful consideration of the many hundreds of people who think the newspaper should know everything, be everything, do everything—all for the "uplifting and building of the community"—free, gratis, for nothing:

"A lawyer charges a man $10 for ten minutes' conversation—the man insists on paying it. A doctor charges $1 for a prescription and the patient says, 'Oh pshaw—is that enough.' An undertaker conducts a funeral and charges $100 and he is just perfectly lovely with everybody inside and outside the family. A man buys a gold brick and apologizes for not having bitten sooner. An editor walks a mile in the hot sun to get the facts of a sudden death or wedding or social function and spends three hours in writing it up and tells lies and praises people till he hates himself. Then if he makes an insignificant omission or error or charges 5 cents straight for three extra papers he is a stingy cuss who never gets anything right and charges four times the price of city papers twice as large. In short he is a confounded most-any-old-thing and ought to be run out of town. Talk about the ice man! How would you like to run a newspaper?"

Even when the sunshine of prosperity is with us, there are many who seek the shade.

GET YOUR CHRISTMAS STATIONERY NOW

About once a year most folks run out of stationery at Christmas time or just before, in which case the forward-looking ones "manage somehow," trusting to luck to find some on the Christmas tree. So, no matter to whom you give stationery it will not be amiss.

It is very popular nowadays to have one's name and address printed on letters and envelopes. In fact, the Postoffice Department at Washington has rather insisted that this should be done, as a matter of precaution. Makes a useful gift and is attractive and welcome. We have a large number of styles to select from. Just jot down the number of persons who would be delighted to have a gift of this kind. Then come here and you will find that you can remember everyone of them at a surprisingly small cost.
